

Statement

I make burnished black ink drawings on paper. Some with exposed white shapes, that when engaged over a prolonged period, will oscillate between object and opening. Others with emphatically flat silhouettes of rectangles, some divided, all with obsessively calculated edges and radii.

Sam Still